J. R. W. WILSON PASSES AWAY

Represented Crittenden County General Assembly of Kentucky—Was County Clerk.

A LIFE LONG DEMOCRAT AND LOVED BY ALL.

The Hon. J. R. W. Wilson, one of most prominent citizens of Crittenden county, quietly passed away little after midnight Sunday evening, January 2nd.

Mr. Wilson had been in bad health more than six months, but so often rallying, that at times his family, those of his most intimate friends, gauged with his condition, were inclined to hope for his ultimate recovery. However he was ready for call of the Master, and had been long for it for several months.

Mr. Wilson had just entered upon eighty-first year since Wednesday, December, 29th. He had served people of Crittenden county both County Clerk and Representative with proof of the high esteem in which he was held by the whole people. He was a member of the Southern Presbyterian church and had held the office of for more than half a century, was a man who, by honest efforts a strict application to business, proven himself a master of

Mr. Wilson leaves a widow and children, Mrs. S. M. Jenkins and W. Wilson, all of Marion. The funeral services were in charge of Pastor, Rev. George F. Mason, assisted by Rev. Jas. F. Price, and held at the beautiful home of Mrs. S. M. Jenkins at one o'clock Monday afternoon, after which his body was laid to rest in the New Marion cemetery beneath a beautiful flowers.

PRESIDENT TAFT ON COUNTRY LIFE.

He Pictures The Country Home Without The Telephone Far Behind the Times.

"I congratulate the people of North Carolina that next the state of Mississippi, it has a population more devoted to the soil and its cultivation than any other state in the United States. You do not have large cities, and I do not think that a defect at all in your civilization. The fact is that the tendency toward concentration of population in the cities is a tendency that ought to be restrained.

"Country life ought to be made more comfortable and attractive.

The pursuit of agriculture, the profession of farming to day, may well attract the mental and manual activity of men of the highest education, of the highest culture, and of the highest ambition."

It was in these words that President Taft, in the course of his famous "swing around the circle", addressed the people at Wilmington, North Carolina. With the facility of all public men for touching upon something locally of vital interest, he picked out a subject that is very near the hearts of the great rural population. He was following the lead of his strenuous predecessor in office, who focussed public attention upon the farm problem less than a year ago, when appointed a commission to investigate and report upon conditions of country life.

In the opinion of many, Mr. Taft, in again awakening the farm life problem, has "hit the nail on the head."

How to keep the boy on the farm—this is but one phase of the great question that has so long occupied the attention of men in public and private life.

The movement to the city of boys bred in the country has always been viewed with considerable alarm.

Such a movement if it became too general would result in two great evils—overcrowding in city slums and lowering the standard of work on the farms.

What's to be done? If young people are discontented at home, and think more opportunities are to be had in the cities; if they find farm work a drudgery and the social life of the country irksome and monotonous, is there not some remedy? To remove the cause of discontent would seem to be the best solution. It may be recorded here that so successful have been efforts to make life on the farms more profitable and attractive that danger of any serious exodus to the cities is a thing of the past.

The farms to-day have many advantages that a generation ago were not known. Most of them are reached by the rural mail, the good roads movement has spread wonderfully, newspapers and farm journals have extended their educative influence, and the rural telephone has organized the great body of farmers and brought them to a better knowledge of each other.

This one agency—the telephone—has done more, perhaps, than anything else to promote the business and home welfare of all the farmers. Through all the great mediums of publicity the truths concerning its power for good have been told to the country population. The Western Electric Company, the largest manufacturer of telephones in the world, distributed instructive literature on the farm telephone subject throughout the rural districts. Farmers were shown how easily rural life, are constructed, and how great a return such a line gives when viewed only from the standpoint of an investment.

For not only does a rural telephone pay; there are times when its presence confers a benefit that could never be gauged in terms of dollars and cents. For instance, when a physician or a veterinarian is wanted in a hurry, the telephone is the only reliable and a quicker-than-lightning messenger. The telephone really increases the efficiency of the farms.

President Taft is merely emphasizing the stand of Mr. Roosevelt, who said:

"If there is one lesson taught by history, it is that the permanent greatness of any state must depend more upon its country population than upon anything else. No growth of cities, no growth of wealth can make up for a loss in either the number or character of the farming population."

ANONYMOUS OPENS UP ON CHRISTMAS

On this beautiful Christmas morning I am sitting all alone in my study gazing from my window to the Eastward where, in more pleasant days than these, I recall memories of happy hours spent with those among whom I was wont to mingle in days of old.

While this is not the gladdest holiday season of my life, being spent away from home and all those that are dear to me, still, the serene calm which now is mine, enables me to reflect upon the noble friendships and the "Ties that Bind", which have been formed in the pleasant past among those just blooming into young manhood and womanhood, (these being most lasting) and which I expect to go with me to the Great Infinite Beyond.

Yet while things are made rather still for me at this time, the fact that it is Christmas Time when all should be merry making the stillness and the day the more beautiful, this stillness to me is more pleasant and my mind rests from its daily work with a greater ease, than could possibly have fallen to my lot among new and frivolous acquaintances who do not know me and whom I do not know.

LYE STEWED PEACHES THAT'S WHAT WE EAT

Another Pure Food Discussion As to How Peaches Are Put Up For the Public

The pure food agitation which has been principally over the question of benzoate of soda has now taken a new turn and renewed interest will doubtless be aroused over this question.

It is said that in most of the canneries of the country peaches are stewed in red-hot caustic soda to eat away the skins and thereby save the cost of knife-peeling, the difference in cost amounting to a cent and a half or two cents per can.

In the process of this lye stewing almost all flavor of the peach disappears and doubtless a little caustic soda is left on each piece of fruit as a memento of its trip through the cannery.

Caustic soda strong enough to eat away the skin of an unripe peach must be anything but soothing to the inner man or child. The full significance of this is best understood in connection with the fact that caustic soda is used in making many kinds of soap; in fact, it is the dirt eating part of soap.

It is said that the great majority of the canneries use the lye process in place of the knife-peeling method.

Attempts have been made for sometime to get the Department of Agriculture to make a ruling on this question which would compel the canners who use this method to say so on the labels of their goods. It looks now as if the question will be passed up to Congress for a specific law covering this phase of the pure food agitation.

The use of caustic soda is impossible with ripe fruit, because it discolors a ripe peach so that it will not pass muster with the users of high-grade canned fruits. In consequence this process is possible only with unripe fruit, and green fruit is properly gathered for canning.

Owing to the absence of any marks on the cans to indicate the use of caustic soda, the only way the customer can tell if he has purchased a lye process can of fruit is by taste.

Open a can of peaches, wash away the syrup from a piece of the fruit.

Then taste it. If it is void of flavor, woody and pulpy, and has a soapy appearance, it is undoubtedly the lye-peeled variety.

William Redd, farmer, Marion, Ky., says: "I was subject to sharp twinges through my loins when I stooped or lifted and was also troubled by a pain in the small of my back. At night I had an acute backache and when I rose in the morning, I felt very lame. I tired easily, was dull and languid and at times was very nervous. The kidney secretions were too frequent in passage and I was forced to arise from three to four times during the night on this account. Learning of Doan's Kidney Pills, I procured a box at Haynes & Taylor's Drug Store and, after using them about three days, I received great relief. I continued using them until I had finished the contents of one box, at which time I was cured. I am pleased to give this remedy my endorsement."

We hail our faithful corps of correspondents with hearty, good wishes for them for the year 1910, as with their help we mean to secure all the news fit to print, from every section of country visited by the Record-Press.

We desire to thank our Correspondents for their efforts in the past and for the many compliments and good wishes received at their hands, all of which proves to us that, though we are among strangers, they are our friends.

Now just a word of advice: Give every news item possible, using every precaution in securing and properly spelling all proper names, as it sometimes offends people to see their names misspelled. If you are ever in a place where you can't take the paper, the births, deaths, weddings, accidents, the sick, all social events, visitors, churches, improvements, fine stock, stock sales and so on. If you should send in a notice of a lost hog, or a farm for sale, we would be compelled to cut them out, and especially so where the parties will not take the paper. As nearly everything a newspaper man does is free, we feel it to be unfair to ask us to advertise free, the lost stock and farms for sale. These last named come under the head of advertising and we have always found advertising to pay the advertiser better than the printer.

Sick to us all through the year 1910 are faithfully as you have in the past and we shall do our best to make you proud of it. We want a live news gatherer as a regular correspondent, from every neighborhood so that the columns of the Record-Press may be full of live news every week, from every town and neighborhood where it goes. This will be more, "a letter from home," to the six or seven hundred subscribers outside the state of Kentucky.

We once had a friend and correspondent who wrote us at the beginning of the new year, saying: "It is my wish and hope to bury all the ill thoughts and unworthy memories of the old year, but to keep alive the good, the cheer and truth which the dead months gave. This is therefore to say requiescat to that which love and friendship have slain and hail to that in the thoughts of us two which should live and increase. 'If thy heart is right as my heart is right, give me thy hand.' Very many years have passed since the sending of that message at the year's end, but the memory of it abides.

It was a thing worthy a Christian and nobleman to say. It was a pledge which has been made into life and into a law which has helped in life's governance.

The years and seasons are in one sense artificial things. Time swells on in one vast never-staying tide, half yesterdays and half to morrow.

And yet in a sense most tremendously true the calendar answers to the heart and its affections, to the intellect and its processes. The Sabbaths were given us that we might find in them the answer of our own restless and hungry soul cries.

The great feast days of years—those which all the families of men accept as real and soulfully placed—answer to the race instinct that grows out of universal passions of joy, gratitude, and patriotism. The instant of the beginning of the year is therefore a sort of summing up, a sort of sweeping into "a major premise" of the other considerations and contemplations of the cycle of "months and months." It is the ultimate window of the watchtower, the one which can serve only when dying shades and embryotic light divide the hours. It is the Mount Seir vigil of the larger revelation, and the order of call and answer is therefore reversed: "Watchman, what of the morning?" The night cometh and after it the morning.

The festival of the dying and waking of the year is an answer to the happier changes of thought and affection that go on within us. Repentance and forgetfulness are the means by which we put away our unworthy feelings and ideals. Hope and faith are the begetters of our nobler and purer aspirations. The old year dies and passes, symbolizing how by grace we may put out of our lives things that wrong and hurt us.

The new year, with its new dates, new opportunities, and new help, is a forever renewed call of the gospel of the new heart, the new life. "He hath put eternity in their hearts," declared the wise man, and each new year is a fresh manifestation of that eternal sense. The festival of the New Year comes close to youth, the new year is a fulfillment of at least a great part of the promise,

"Behold, I make all things new." It is an exposition of the doctrine that youth is in the world of God forever.

Age is an accident of human frailty and not a part of the divine plan in the perfection of all things.

Whatever is to endure is young always young.

The New Year festival has in it an element of the nature love that is instinct in our race. Aside from starry skies or mantling night clouds, the chill of midnight air, and the voiceless shades that wrap hill and valley, we have no true picture of the going and coming of the year. Instinctively, too, we feel that nature is surning a pang of loneliness and dying on the one hand and a joy of birth on the other. At no season of the year do nature and revelation come so near together. It is then that nature and faith make mutual plea. The God of revelation is still the God of nature. Time is the egg which hides the winged soul of eternity.

Silence inevitably attaches to death, as also to birth. The priestess vigilar at the death and birth of the year is Silence, a silence which if attended is fruitful of the highest and best in emotion and purpose. The "watch night" of the fathers invaded the sanctities of this silence with a faith that expected and purposed. They sang.

"Come let us anew our journey pursue,
Roll round with the year,
And never stand still till the Master appear.
His adorable will let us gladly fulfill
And our talents improve
By the patience of hope and the labor of love."

Make of the fled year a closed door against the false and faithless things and of the new year an open portal into the new and better house of life into which you shall carry with you the faith and sacrifice-bought treasures of all your past. "From the Ewoud Era."

Set by Wyman Stanley Calmes.

"The Pledge of the New Year" was put in type by Wyman Stanley Calmes, the little seven year old son of Mr. and Mrs. N. E. Calmes.

During the vacation last week he helped his father in the office earning, at fifty cents a column, three dollars that he applied on his pledge to the New Methodist Church Fund.

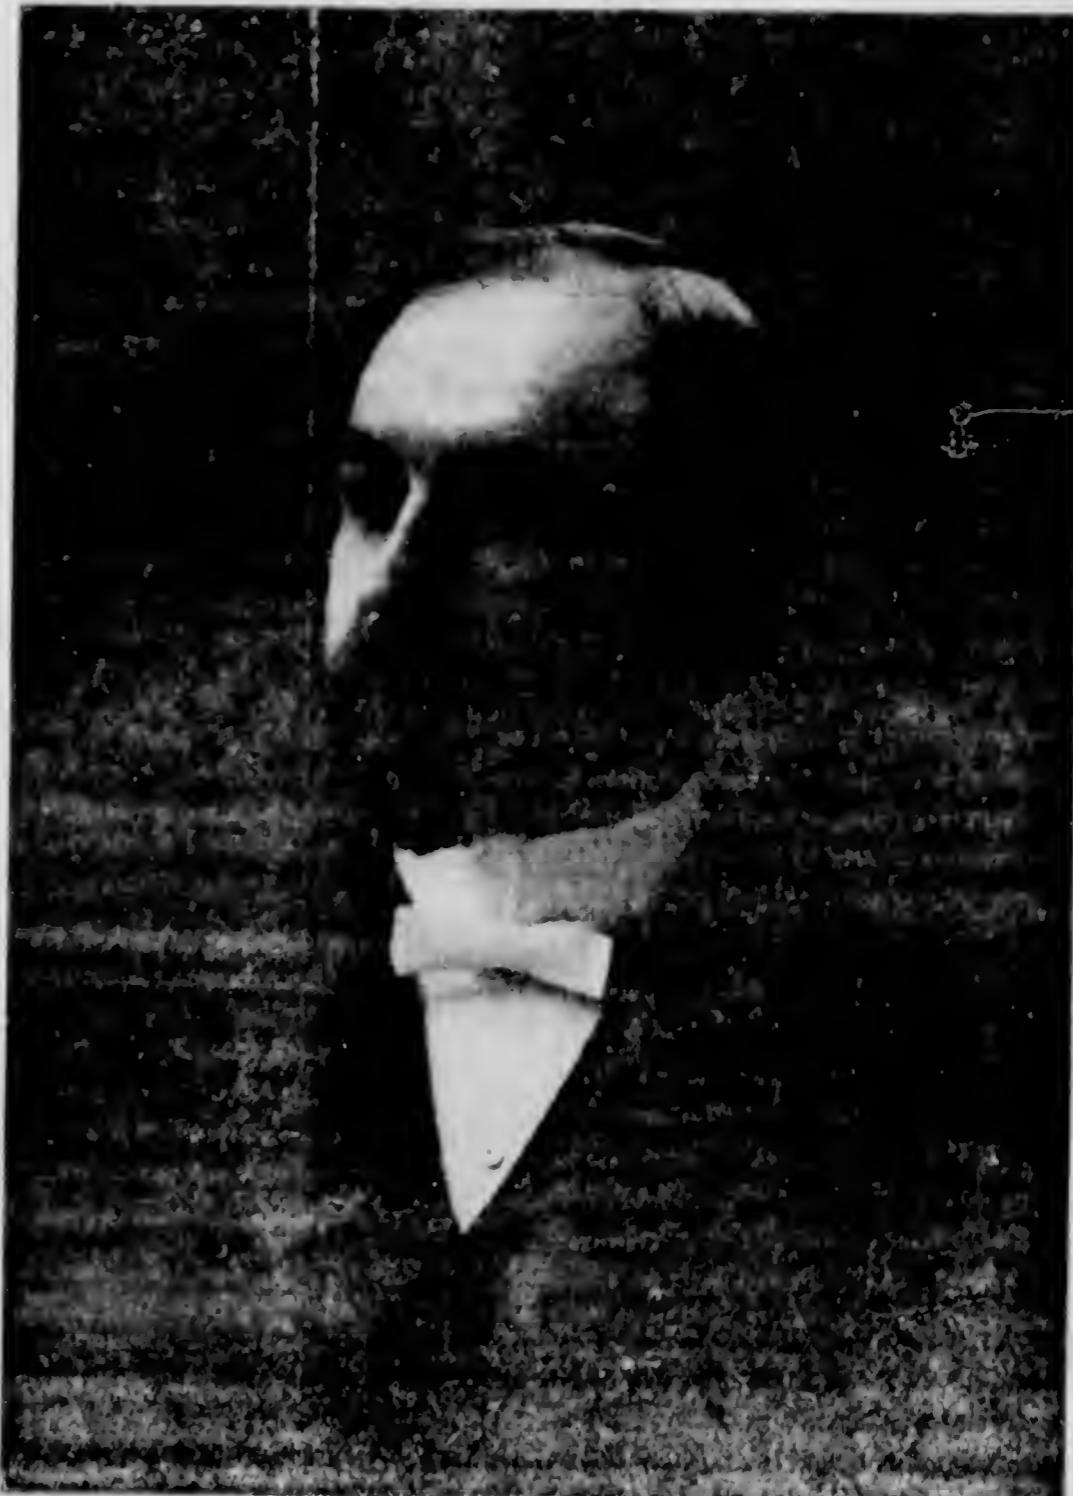

Little Wyman has been setting type for more than two years and submits the cleanest proof in the office.

The Postal Telegraph Company during the holidays, furnished Miss Mary Cameron, their genial operator here, with some lovely souvenir blanks for their many customers.

Judge J. P. Pierce had a turkey for his Christmas dinner that was, perhaps, the largest bird ever grown in Crittenden county. It weighed, when dressed, thirty three pounds.

Luther Stevens, Tribune, called while in town last week and had his name added to our list of subscribers.

Mrs. C. C. Long, of Dallas, Tex., who has been visiting relatives and friends here during the holidays, called and renewed her subscription before returning.

A revival meeting is to commence next Sunday morning at the Baptist church to be conducted by Rev. Wm. D. Nowlin, of Owensboro.

Dr. Nowlin is said to be one of the leading evangelists of the South, and surely the success marking his pathway indicates it.

The singing will be in charge of Mr. and Mrs. Bourquin, of Paducah.

Surely the Lord has blessed us, and now, why not apply for work as laborers in His vineyard.

LOST.—In Marion December 28, a black and white spotted bird dog, black head with white streak on head, big black spot on side, black tail with white hair on end.

Has short tail, six or eight inches long. Is known by name of "Spot." Information will be gladly received by Geo. W. Parish, Fredonia, Ky., Route 2.

FOR SALE.—One old mule, good worker, one young mule and one horse. Will sell for cash or on time, to suit purchaser. Come quick if you want a bargain.—Eugene Clark, Tolu, Ky.

Sweet little Clara Porter, the five year old daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Ernest Carnahan, died very suddenly on Monday Morning, Dec. 3d.

She was buried in the New Marion cemetery, Rev. J. B. Adams of the Methodist church officiating.

The grief-stricken Parents have the sympathy of all in this, the greatest grief of their lives.

CARD OF THANKS.

Dr. Franks wishes to thank his many friends who remembered him on Christmas Eve, for the nice presents from the Xmas Tree and elsewhere, but sorry to say that the tiny little babe or doll is entirely to young to raise without material care. I am doing the very best I can for it, but it actually needs some clothes—I cannot tell that it has anything at all—I shall not undertake to give the sex, but will say that it is beautiful little one—but don't think that it is a full American; therefore I am anxious to see its Ma and Pa.

Envelopes and paper is being called for so fast that we were compelled to order an extra one hundred thousand envelopes and one hundred reams of note heads. And why not? Every farmer or farm hand should have his name and address on his paper and envelope. And more especially should he do so while he can get them so cheap. Just think of 100 envelopes and 250 note heads, with name and address, for $1.50 with the Record-Press one year.

Mrs. G. A. Thomas called at the Record-Press office and handed us a dollar for her renewal.

M. K. Given, of Iron Hill, paid his renewal to the Record-Press while in town last week.

Chas. W. Fox, Secretary of the Board of Education for Crittenden county, called while in Marion last week and paid his renewal.

Rev. Jno. R. King, of Blackford, sent us his check for his renewal, last week, taking advantage of the note heads and envelopes they receive and cheaper by half than he could have bought it without the printing.

REMARKABLE RAILROAD CAREER.

GEORGE J. GOULD, the head of the Gould system of railways, controls 17,000 miles of track, sufficient to run a road three quarters around the earth at the equator. This is but the beginning, seemingly, of the realization of his ambition, for his alliance with Rockefeller gives him a backing that makes the railway magnates fear the outcome of his plans. His intention to make a trans-continental system from Ogden, Utah, to Baltimore, Md., if in full operation would, without a doubt, be the means of restoring to Baltimore her former prestige as a great port of the nation.

Mr. Gould, now in his fiftieth year, handles big enterprises with an ease, a certainty and a grasp of essentials that reveal him as a thoroughly satisfactory follower in the footsteps of his father, from whom he received the beginning of his business training.

His early education was with private tutors and without going to college he entered the world of finance under the watchful chaperonage of his father. At an age when most rich men's sons are busy inventing new ways of being happy and taking post-graduate courses in spending money, George was studying railways, finance, the machinery of a director's room and the manipulation of large schemes and movements as seen from the general's tent, where the full plan of campaign was outlined. Before he was thirty he was a director in many large corporations and one of the powers behind the throne in Missouri Pacific, Manhattan Elevated, Western Union and a number of other companies where his voice and his vote were factors in determining the control of millions.

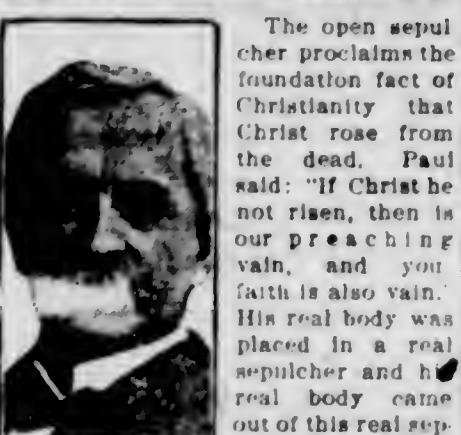

Heredity, environment and a feeling of responsibility combined with his own hard sense and a singular concentration and energy of purpose helped him to hold and increase the fortune left him by his father.

Mr. Gould is a tireless worker, intensely interested in his business life; but in his hours of rest and recreation at his home in Lakewood, N. J., he puts his whole heart into his polo or his romps with his five children, as if business were only a word in his dictionary, not a factor in his life. His palace in the pines at Lakewood is an architectural dream; realized seemingly by a magic spell in a clearing in the forest. The house is of gray brick in the Renaissance style with treasures of furnishing. The stables, polo grounds, theatre, casino, racing track, swimming pool, sunken garden and marvellous fountain, all designed and carried into execution by the ablest artists, on regal lines of magnificence, make "Georgian Court" one of the finest country houses in America.

THE OPEN SEPULCHER

By REV. A. C. DIXON, D. D.,
Pastor of the Chicago Ave. (Moody's)
Church, Chicago.

The open sepulcher proclaims the foundation fact of Christianity that Christ rose from the dead. Paul said: "If Christ be not risen, then is our preaching vain, and your faith is also vain." His real body was placed in a real sepulcher and his real body came out of this real sepulcher. He was pronounced dead by the disinterested officials who were sent to examine him. His friends believed him dead, for some of them came with spades to entomb him. The fact of his resurrection is as well attested as the fact of his death and burial. Peter and John find the tomb empty, for nothing is in order. He showed himself to Mary, who at first takes him for the gardener. Then he appears to the two disciples on the way to Emmaus. Again, while the doors are shut he appears in the midst of his disciples. Then more than 500 brethren see him at once. To one who accepts the Biblical record as authoritative the fact of the resurrection is proved beyond the shadow of a doubt.

The open sepulcher, in the second place, confirms the fact of the deity of Christ. If he did not rise from the dead, he was, of course, a mere man and his death was that of a victim and not a king, and the world is benefited no more by his death than by the death of any other martyr to a noble mission. But the open sepulcher proves that all he claimed of Deity for himself and all his friends claimed for him was true. He was declared to be the Son of God, with power, by the resurrection from the dead.

The open sepulcher, in the third place, is the fulfillment of prophecy. He rose from the dead according to the Scriptures. We read in Psalms 2:7: "The Lord hath said unto me thou art my Son; this day have I brought thee forth." And we learn in Acts 13:33 that these words predict the resurrection of Jesus. The words of Hosea: "In the third day he will rise up and we shall rise in his sight," point forward to the resurrection of Jesus and of all his people with him. In Psalm 16:9, 10 Peter tells us in his Pentecostal sermon David refers to Christ: "My flesh also shall rest in hope, for thou will not leave my soul in hades, neither wilt thou suffer thine Holy One to see corruption."

Wisdom's worth and winsomeness, her pleasantness and peace, are known only to those who walk her way.

There is no man so high that the lowest creature may not be his teacher.

The moth of sloth eats the tabernacle of Short weight, long woe.

LIFE SAVED BY A TIN TOMATO CAN

WITH IT A CASTAWAY FARMHAND BAILS BOAT FOR 29 HOURS BEFORE REACHING LAND.

BLOWN 62 MILES BY STORM

Unable to Row in Great Gale, Edgar L. Brown is Driven Across Lake Ontario—None the Worse for Experience.

Rochester, N. Y.—Edgar L. Brown, who was blown across Lake Ontario in a recent big storm in a flat bottom punt, walked down the gangway of the car ferryboat Ontario at Charlotte at five o'clock a few days later and was cheered by half the population of the village. The famous boat was on the ferry, and was immediately claimed by Michael Burns, a farmer, who owns it. A neighbor offered to give Burns and the boat a lift home in his wagon.

"Not on your life," said Burns, "that boat has a record now and it would be a disgrace to it to put it on a wagon. I'm going to row it around to-morrow."

Neither Brown nor the punt shows any ill effects of the weird experience. Brown says he entered the boat in Round Pond about seven o'clock Monday morning. He fell asleep, and when he awoke, half an hour later, was nearly out of sight of land. From then until he landed on the Canadian coast, three and one-half miles from Grafton, about noon Tuesday, he was mostly in the bottom of the craft bailing for his life with a tomato can.

His clothing was soaked in the first hour at sea, and was sodden when he landed. He says the waves looked as tall as church steeples.

"What did I think of?" echoed Brown, when asked about his experience. "I simply couldn't think. Every faculty seemed concentrated in that tomato can. It was only Almighty God that brought me through. Man alone could not have survived. I suffered from cold terribly, and the exercise of

WELLS IN THE DESERT

By REV. A. C. DIXON, D. D.,
Pastor of the Chicago Ave. (Moody's)
Church, Chicago.

Blessed is the man whose strength is in thee; in whose heart are the high ways, who pass through the valley of Balaam make it a well.

The desert usually lacks but one thing to make it a garden. In southern climates it has light, heat and often very fertile soil. Water is the one need. And frequently there is abundance of water a few feet beneath the surface, rivers and streams flowing through their hidden canals. The thirsty traveler has only to dig deep enough and he will find the well.

Christians come to desert valleys of life in their experiences and there is virtue as by which the wells are made. The strength is in the words. Blessed is the man whose strength is in thee; in whose heart are the high ways. No human strength can dig such a well. It is our reliance upon the strength of God that makes it a well in the desert and if in our hearts are the highways of love, peace and joy the well will never go dry.

Sin wastes and withers every flower and shrub. After the murder of Abel the ground refused to bring forth its fruits for Cain and up to that time he was a prosperous farmer. Sin made earth a desert for him. A prosperous merchant forges the name of his rich neighbor to just one check his reputation for honesty is lost and his business goes to pieces. Sin has made a desert for him. The home which is a very garden of God can be turned into a desert by sin. A life as fair as the flowers of spring can be turned into a desert full of loathsome reptiles. Sin lust, living any sort of sin, can turn any little garden of purity and beauty into a desert of vileness and moral ugliness.

But a well can be made even in the desert caused by sin. If we confess our sins he is faithful and just to forgive us from all unrighteousness. Confession digs the well of forgiveness and cleansing which fills our souls with the refreshing waters of peace and joy. He that believeth on the son bathes everlasting life. Faith in Christ 40s in our hearts the well which springs up into eternal life. Behold the lands of God who takes away the sin of the world. A vision of Christ as sun bearer dugs in our hearts the well of consciousness that the sin question has been settled, our guilt is removed and "there is, therefore, now no condemnation to them who are in Christ Jesus."

A friend of mine, prosperous in his profession, discovered that he had a bad case of tuberculosis, and, leaving his beautiful home, went to Arizona in seek health, while his business fell into pieces. Life, at first, seemed a desert waste, but when I saw him a few weeks ago he was drinking of the waters in the wells of resignation and indifference which God in whose strength he leaned had made in this desert experience and in his heart were the highways of faith, hope and joy. There lived in New York city a young woman who had given herself to Christ, and was anxious to be useful. But disease paralyzed her body, so that she could not rise from her bed, though she could use her hands in writing. For more than 40 years she lived in a little brick cottage without leaving her room a single time. The city of New York built its high houses around this little cottage with its helpless invalid in it, and the friends who would see her must pass through the side door of a saloon. It was like going through hell to reach heaven. That room of invalidism was a holy of holies, a miniature paradise. One could easily imagine the rustle of angels' wings as he listened to the mellow, sweet voice from the pillow telling of God's abiding presence with her, and when she prayed it was like friend talking with friend, so real that when you opened your eyes and looked up you almost expected to see God with whom she spoke. The rich and learned came to that little room for comfort and strength, while the poor of the neighborhood knew who was their best friend, and every Christmas the turkey came as the gift of the Christ.

Through her men and women who believed in the power of God had urged her to seek healing.

She had refused, saying that she had no money to pay for the doctor.

"Sure Cure"

"I would like to give suffering women to a sure cure for female troubles," writes Mrs. R. E. Mercer of Frozen Camp, W. Va. "I have found no medicine equal to Cardui had suffered for about four years. Would have headache for a week at a time, until I would be nearly crazy. I took Cardui and now I never have the headache any more."

The pains from which many women suffer every month are unnecessary.

The Tenderfoot Farmer

It was one of these experimental farmers, who put green spectacles on his cow and fed her shavings. His theory was that it didn't matter what the cow ate so long as she was fed. The questions of digestion and nourishment had not entered into his calculations.

It's only a "tenderfoot" farmer that would try such an experiment with a cow. But many a farmer feeds him for all the good he gets out of his food. The result is that the stomach "weak" the action of the organs of digestion and nutrition are impaired and the man suffers the miseries of dyspepsia and the agonies of nervousness.

To strengthen the stomach, restore the activity of the organs of digestion and nutrition and brace up the nerves, use Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery. It is an un-failing remedy, and has the confidence of physicians as well as the praise of thousands of patients by its use.

It contains neither intoxicants nor narcotics, and is as free from alcohol, opium, cocaine and other dangerous drugs. All ingredients printed on outside wrapper.

Don't let a dealer delude you for his own profit. There is no medicine for such, liver and blood "just as good" as "Golden Medical Discovery."

Better Not Get Dyspepsia

you can help it. Kodol prevents Dyspepsia, by actually helping Nature to Relieve Indigestion. don't trifle with Indigestion.

great many people who have been with Indigestion, have been for it—when nervous or due dyspepsia resulted, and have not been able to cure it. Kodol and prevent having dyspepsia.

Everyone is subject to Indigestion. Stomach derangement follows each abuse, just as naturally just as surely as a sound and healthy stomach results upon the doing of Kodol.

When you experience sourness of stomach, belching of gas and eating fluid, bloated sensation, aching pain in the pit of the stomach, heart burn (so-called), rheumatism, headaches, dullness or entire tired feeling—you need Kodol. And then the quicker you take it—the better. Eat what you eat, let Kodol digest it.

Ordinary papain "dyspepsia tablets," physics, etc., are not likely to be of much benefit to you, in native ailments. Papain is only Kodol is prepared at the laboratories of E.C. DeWitt & Co., Chicago.

"THE CASH STORE."

Having enjoyed a splendid trade, all through the past year, and while I feel to have merited the same, yet it is far from me to enter upon the New Year without thanking my many customers and friends for having made my business a success. Having inaugurated a cash system, which I have strictly adhered to, applying to buying as well as selling, gave me a decided advantage over the man who buys on time, which advantage I cheerfully gave my customers. By this method I am better prepared to take care of my many customers and they are better able to buy.

I announce to my customers on this, the advent of the New Year, that I am better prepared than ever to sell you what you want and save you money.

Again thanking you for the exceeding liberal patronage extended me in the past, and wishing one and all, a happy and prosperous journey through the New Year and hoping to merit and hold inviolate the confidence you have placed in me, promising to accord to you a hearty welcome when you visit my store, I am,
